AVIATRIX IS NEAR DEATH AFTER CRASH

Miss Ruth Nichols Critically Hurt—Co-Pilot's Injuries Prove Fatal

BIG PLANE STRIKES TREES THEN BURNS

TROY, N.Y., Oct. 21 (AP)—Capt. Harry Hublitch, New York, injured with Miss Ruth Nichols, leading aviatrice, in the crash of a giant air liner today, died at midnight tonight in Good Samaritan Hospital. Miss Nichols was reported as "holding her own" and was given a "fair" chance to recover. Miss Nichols has survived four previous crashes.

Four other employees of Miss Nichols received minor injuries in today's accident.

Miss Nichols' twenty-passenger plane faltered on a take-off from the Troy airport today and tore through two ancient trees. The ship exploded and burned as it struck the ground.

The limbs of a tall elm snatched Miss Nichols, seat and all, and flung her twenty-five feet from the wreckage. Her pilot, Capt. Hublitch, likewise was thrown clear, his strap still buckled.

RECEIVE MINOR HURTS
The four other employees were Misses Gladys and Nena Berklin, sister, and Ray Hanes and William Holt. The girls are stewardesses. Hanes is a mechanic and Holt a ticket-taker.

HELENA FACING HER HEAVY JOB

Has Task of Rebuilding to Start as Recurrent Earthquakes Subside

HELENA, Mont., Oct. 21 (AP)—Quake-torn Helena, rocked and swayed for ten days by relentless earthquakes, happily received a weather bureau report tonight which indicated early relief from the disastrous tremors.

Noticeable was the general "tapering off" both in frequency and intensity of the series of shocks. Weary citizens welcomed the trend as a possibility of complete cessation of the earth movement within a short time.

TREMORS CONTINUE
Slight tremors continued, however, as Helena began to rebuild. Before it was the task of setting in order a city which suffered from Friday night's severe quake a toll of two deaths, a hundred injured and property damage estimated at more than $2,000,000.

An effort to resume normal home and business life was pronounced tonight, but business firms generally remained closed. Although the closing ban on public meetings held fast, Amos Sheldahl, commissioner of public safety, announced that business houses might resume operation in the discretion of proprietors.

EMERGENCY RESOLUTION
An emergency resolution of the council instructed the city engineer to condemn unsafe buildings and force their demolition. E. S. Transue, of Denver, Red Cross representative, assured refugees and needy persons they will be cared for and that those whose homes were damaged or made uninhabitable and who cannot qualify for Federal loans will be rehabilitated.

Scores of places were being cleaned of debris. Every brick mason was enlisted. Storekeepers improvised shops and one carried the sign "We're open for business as usual, and how we need it."

LORD SNELL IS CHOSEN LEADER

Chairman of London County Council to Head Labor Peers in Upper Chamber

LONDON, Oct. 21 (AP)—Labor peers at a meeting here tonight unanimously decided to elect Lord Snell leader of the Labor opposition in the House of Lords, to succeed Lord Ponsonby.

The meeting was held at the residence of Lord Ponsonby, who resigned the position because he did not agree with the policy of applying sanctions in the Italo-Ethiopian dispute. The majority of the party approved sanctions.

Lord Snell is chairman of the London County Council. He held the post of Parliamentary Under-Secretary of State in the Indian Office in 1931. He is a member of the executive committee of the Labor Party.

The bear was killed shortly after its attack upon Baker as it attempted to charge two other men.

SCREEN ACTRESS BORNE TO SAFETY

Fire in English Cottage Destroys Documents of Former New York Mayor

DORCHING, Eng., Oct. 21 (AP)—James J. Walker's personal records of his two terms as New York City Mayor were destroyed today by fire in a house from which the American film actress, Laura La Plante, was carried to safety.

Walker's documents, which included thousands of newspaper clippings, had been stored in a thatched cottage which he formerly occupied and in which Miss La Plante and her husband, Irving Asher, American film director, were living. The records were brought from storage in City Hall, New York, several months ago.

Scant Hope Remains For Safety of Crew From Lost Steamer

Danish Ship Abandons Search for Men Who Took To Lifeboats Where Raging Storm Claimed British Freight Carrying Vessel

LONDON, Oct. 21 (AP)—Fears grew tonight that all thirty-seven men aboard the freighter Vardulia had been lost, after taking to their lifeboats 400 miles west of the Hebrides Islands in the storm-tossed North Atlantic, as more than fifty hours passed without word of their fate.

At Glasgow, officials of the Donaldson Line, which operated the Vardulia, said they had not abandoned hope for the men who were rescued on Saturday they were leaving the ship after asking earlier for immediate aid.

The line said in a statement that four more ships were aiding in the search.

"Ships that are or will be in the vicinity," the statement, "are the Anchor Line Transylvania,

Dr. J. Allen Fraser Drowns in Vain Attempt to Save Gilbert Duval at Patricia Bay—Frederick Lock Perishes When Tiny Craft Capsizes at Kenver Bay

WATERS of Patricia Bay and Kinver Bay, Esquimalt, claimed three victims Sunday afternoon. Dr. J. A. Fraser, thirty-eight, 3012 Quadra Street, well-known city dentist, lost his life in the choppy waters of Patricia Bay in a vain attempt to rescue his companion, Gilbert William Duval, twenty-seven, Collinson Street, who had fallen overboard from his launch, and also drowned.

Frederick Lock, eighteen years of age, 939 Esquimalt Road, met death when a "sea flea" in which he was riding with Charles Frankham, twenty-three years of age, 507 Head Street, capsized after running into its own wash.

Threat Is Answered By Rioting

SHANGHAI, Oct. 22 (AP)—Rengo (Japanese) News Agency reported from Peking today that widespread rioting, with a score of villagers killed, had broken out at Hsiao-Ho, resulting in a threat of drastic action by Japanese military forces unless the disturbances are ended.

The villagers were killed, the dispatches said, when members of a peace preservation corps fired a volley into a mob besieging the Government office for tax relief.

THREE AGED VOTERS LEFT ON THE LIST

CAMDEN, Ont., Oct. 21 (AP)—Five years ago Camden had twelve old residents who had voted for Sir John A. Macdonald at Confederation, but now there are only three left. Senior of the three is Henry Purcell, of Colborne, who celebrated his ninety-fifth birthday anniversary, October 6. Next comes Charles Lee, eighty-nine, who will be ninety on February 26, next. Miss Jessie Lee is junior member of the trio.

JAMAICA HIT BY HURRICANE

Banana Crop Badly Damaged—Storm Heads for Haiti and Cuba

KINGSTON, Jamaica, Oct. 22 (AP)—Having wrought an estimated $2,500,000 damage on Eastern Jamaica, a late season tropical hurricane was thundering last night into the Windward Passage between Haiti and Cuba.

The disturbance, moving at a leisurely pace of ten to twelve miles an hour, slashed at Jamaica early yesterday and wrought damage upon the island's banana crop that was estimated at $1,000,000.

An eleven-year-old boy was drowned when flood waters from swollen rivers raced over the land in the wake of the storm. Many other lives were menaced, but no further deaths were reported.

HEADS NORTHEASTWARD
After scourging Jamaica, the storm was reported heading north or northeastward and Port Au Prince in Western Haiti and all the southeastern shore of Cuba were "digging in" to baffle its fury.

The storm was expected to reach the Windward Passage late last night and move out into the Eastern Bahamas today. It was more than 300 miles from the Florida Keys, visited with tragic results by a similar weather monster last month and was not moving toward the peninsula.

Unearth Chapel of The Ninth Century With Steam Shovel

THREE DEAD AFTER RIOT

Stores Looted and Government Cars Wrecked by Kingston Laborers

KINGSTON, St. Vincent, B.W.I., Oct. 21 (AP)—Three rioters were shot dead and several others wounded tonight as a crowd of angry laborers armed with clubs and stones stormed business houses.

Bent on robbery and destruction, hundreds of negroes surged through the streets of the capital after threatening disorders all day.

STORES LOOTED
A number of stores were looted and cars owned by the Administrator and other Government officials were wrecked before an armed guard dispersed the rioters.

There was no assurance that the trouble was over, however, and guards were placed on duty for the night. All business was suspended.

First indication of the outbreak was given today when a crowd of noisy laborers began to gather in Kingston. In the afternoon an unruly mob carrying clubs, stones and various weapons surrounded the Administrator outside the courthouse and demanded a hearing on workmen's problems.

QUIET RESTORED
Quiet was restored after the Administrator promised to receive representations on questions of minimum wages, workmen's compensation and customs duties. Meanwhile the police guard around the building had been doubled, and the crowd broke up without violence. Before many hours they gathered again, their ranks swelled by laborers from outlying plantations who planned to make a night of it in the capital.

CROWD ON RAMPAGE
One or two minor front street incidents were enough to start the whole crowd on the rampage, and the largest business houses and stores were first marked for attack. Much food, clothing and other stock was carried off, and as the rioters went from one place to another, they made side excursions in search of the cars to be smashed.

Not until their ranks were broken by police fire did the disorders cease. As the dead and wounded were carried away order was restored.

TO SEEK SEATS IN B.C. HOUSE

Social Credit League Decides to Contest Next Provincial Elections

VANCOUVER, Oct. 21 (AP)—The British Columbia Social Credit League at a meeting tonight decided to change from a Federal constituency basis to a provincial constituency basis with the purpose of campaigning in the next general provincial elections. The objective would be election of a Social Credit majority at Victoria.

Seventy-five representatives from all Vancouver ridings, Fraser Valley, New Westminster, Victoria and Lower Vancouver Island were present. A. D. Greer, chairman of the league, presided.

The delegates decided to require that all members sever their present connections, if any, with any other political party.

The present executive council, elected at the formation of the league six weeks ago, was confirmed in office until a province-wide convention is held.

Employment in B.C. Primary Industries Steadily Increasing

Ten Thousand Men Have Gone Back to Work in Two Years, With 1935 Viewed as Most Marked Advance in Period From 1932 to Date

CLOSE on 10,000 men have gone back to work in the primary industries of the province in the last two years, as the result of private endeavor. This outstanding fact was disclosed yesterday in a check of the official figures compiled by the British Columbia Department of Labor for the years 1932, 1933 and 1934. The actual traceable gain in employment in lumber, mines and fisheries was 9,164 persons, for primary industries and occupations that exclude half of the fisheries and all of agriculture.

In three main branches mining has added 3,184 employees since 1932. Metal mining employed 2,931 individuals in 1932; 4,488 in 1933; and 6,341 last year. Coal mining employed 3,811 in 1932; 2,938 in 1933; and 3,111 persons last year. Smelters employed 2,443 persons in 1932; 902 in 1933; and 3,117 last year. At the end of 1934 there were 12,560

At work in the industry, compared with 9,385 in 1932.

STEADY IMPROVEMENT
In two main branches, primary timber and pulp operations added 2,887 men in the last two years. All forms of raw milling and logging engaged 11,505 persons in 1932; 12,347 in 1933; and 15,004 last year.

Public Subscription Opened for Huge War Loan in Italy—Conversations Continue Between II Duce and British Ambassador—Britain Applies Neutrality Rules in Africa

Germany Formally Leaves League and Will Be Neutral

(Copyright, 1935, by The Hearst News Agency)

LONDON, Oct. 21 (CP)—Great Britain and France have rejected a new offer by Premier Mussolini for peaceful settlement of the Ethiopian campaign and are awaiting momentarily a new Italian proposal, informed quarters understood tonight.

Meantime, according to an Anglo-Italian understanding said to have been reached last week in Rome, the Italians would withdraw all their troops from the Libyan-Egyptian border if Britain would recall some of her fleet units from the Mediterranean.

Great Britain hopes, it is understood, that League of Nations economic penalties against Italy will progressively oblige II Duce to reduce his previous price for halting armed conquest of Ethiopia in exchange for large territories.

The proposal which Britain and France are said to have turned down is authoritatively understood to embrace:

1. An Italian proposal over an autonomous Free Province.
2. A League mandate in Italy's name over the territories adjacent to Italy's East African colonies.
3. A League international committee of five controlling Ethiopia proper (excluding Abyssinia, including Addis Ababa), with a preponderance of Italian influence.
4. A disarmament of the last-named area.

A HINT FOR ROME
ROME, Oct. 21 (AP)—Italian Government spokesmen tonight gave new credence to the likelihood that Great Britain will agree to the withdrawal of some of her men of war from the Mediterranean in exchange for recall of Fascist troops from Libya.

MAN KILLED IN ACCIDENT

W. Blakey Believed to Have Been Struck by Street Car in Esquimalt

William Blakey, seventy-four, 1479 Fort Street, was fatally injured in an accident on Signal Hill, near the Ordnance Stores, Esquimalt, shortly after 11 o'clock last night. There were no witnesses.

Mr. Blakey was apparently struck by a street car and died shortly after the arrival of Esquimalt police officers summoned by passers-by who saw the injured man lying parallel to the street railway tracks. Later examination showed a serious injury on the left side of the head and injuries to the left hand.

At seven o'clock in the evening police received a report from members of the family that Mr. Blakey, who was in poor health, was missing from home and it is believed he had been wandering for several hours before the accident.

GENERAL QUIET ON ALL FRONTS

Italians on Northern Front Preparing to Meet Main Ethiopian Army

ADDIS ABABA, Oct. 21 (AP)—Ethiopian forces headed northeast through the mountains tonight, en route from Addis Ababa by Dessale. The troops were expected to take eight days to reach Dessale, about 180 miles away.

The Negus himself decided to depart from Dessale within the next few days. His Crown Prince Asfaw Wossen Tafari will be in charge of the capital while he is gone.

A slow but forceful movement of the Italian armies into the interior of Ethiopia was seen by Ethiopians tonight as Premier Mussolini's plan of campaign as reports from all fronts indicated general quiet.

SNOW ENDS HUNT FOR MISSING BOY

Three Year-Old Danny Schlieter Lost Four Days Ago Near Okanagan Lake

KELWANA, Oct. 21 (AP)—Hope was virtually abandoned tonight for the life of three-year-old Danny Schlieter, missing since last Thursday in the Bear Creek Valley on the west side of Okanagan Lake as a bitter north wind swept down the valley bringing a driving snow.

More than 150 searchers, who have been combing the district since the boy was reported missing four days ago, returned tonight without having found a trace of the youngster and were unable to continue the search in the face of the sharp change in the weather.

Political Leaders of Both Parties Gather Round Council Table

Premier Bennett and Cabinet Members Winding Up Necessary Business Before Resigning—Prominent Liberals Consulting With King

OTTAWA, Oct. 21 (P).—Two political leaders gathered with chosen followers around council tables today, Prime Minister Bennett meeting his Cabinet to wind up the affairs of his Administration, and Liberal Leader King conferring with followers in the selection of those with whom he will form a new Government.

Following a three-hour session of the Cabinet, Mr. Bennett said no action had been taken on the resignation tendered immediately after the election by Hon. W. D. Herridge, Canadian Minister to Washington. It would be accepted, he said, effective on a date which would enable Mr. Herridge to conclude affairs of office in Washington.

LIBERAL CONFERENCES

Conferences with a number of tried councillors summoned by the Liberal Leader went forward at Laurier House. Mr. King made no statement nor has there been any official intimation as to those who will form the new Government.

Swearing in of the new Government may take place on Wednesday, but Friday or Saturday was considered a more likely date. Thursday is Thanksgiving Day, and if Mr. King is not ready to take office on Wednesday it will have to go over until Friday or later. Mr. Bennett intimated that the Government would be ready to resign after a Cabinet council tomorrow.

FORMER MINISTERS

Two former Western Ministers were among Mr. King's visitors. Hon. Charles Dunning, former Minister of Finance, arrived at Laurier House in the morning, lunching there and spending a good part of the afternoon with Mr. King. Hon. T. A. Crerar, former Minister of Railways, called in the afternoon. The Liberal leader in the Senate, Hon. Raoul Dandurand, was another visitor.

Mr. Dunning's name has frequently been linked with the financial portfolio in the new Government, although, when he retired from politics to enter business five years ago, he said he intended to stay out.

Premier J. G. Gardiner, of Saskatchewan, has returned to Regina after a visit with Mr. King last week. Whether he has gone back to arrange for a new Saskatchewan Premier to take his place while he moves to Ottawa or simply to carry on at Regina will remain a secret until the Cabinet lineup is announced.

STALWARTS IN OTTAWA

Other Liberal stalwarts who came to Ottawa today were Ross W. Gray, member for West Lambton; Hon. Charles Stewart, who lost his seat at a Social Credit candidate in Alberta, and J. A. MacKinnon, the only Liberal elected in Alberta. None of these three called on Mr. King.

Mr. Gray said he was in Ottawa on private business and left for Montreal in the afternoon. Mr. Stewart makes his home in Ottawa, and on his arrival went to his office in the Parliament Buildings to begin preparations to move out.

Nanaimo Wharf Is Near Completion

John P. Forde, district engineer of the Dominion Department of Public Works, New Westminster, at the Empress Hotel, yesterday, stated that the Nanaimo wharf, which is being built under the Federal works programme at a cost of $200,000, will be completed by the middle of November.

He explained that, with the completion of the project, there will be a considerable industrial activity at the Up-Island city.

PEMMICAN TWO CENTURIES OLD

Provincial Police Make Interesting Find in Peace River Area

Provincial Archives were the richer this week by the products of two discoveries in the Peace River country dating back respectively to the early days of Indian and white settlement in that area, including food stores two hundred years old.

Assistant Commissioner T. W. S. Parsons, completing a 4,000-mile inspection tour by trail and canoe in the North, brought back with him dried pemmican possibly two centuries old, as well as a nineteenth century shot cannister and powder horn, the latter found in a deserted, crumbling cabin on the Peace River.

NEW FOREST ROSE

The pemmican, made from elk meat and berries pounded in a skin bag, was found a foot below ground on which poplars subsequently seeded themselves and grew to full growth. This was at a point on the Peace River, two miles north of Hudson's Hope portage. When found the pemmican was glutinous, but air hardened the mass to the consistency of concrete. The skin bag had rotted completely.

The powder horn and shot cannister are believed to have been the property of a fur trader from the early days of white occupation in the district. They recall the days of the old muzzle loading rifles. The pemmican is thought to have been prepared by the early Upper Beaver Indians, in hunting grounds just west of the Wood Cree of Alberta. Both finds were turned over to the Archives by Mr. Parsons.

The assistant commissioner of police covered a wide area of the North inside four weeks, including 400 miles by canoe in inland waters north of Prince George. As customary with the force, he kept his eyes open for material of service to the Archives, resulting in the interesting discoveries now made.

DICKENS GROUP HOLDS MEETING

Victoria Fellowship Hears Papers—Arranging for Christmas Banquet

Victoria Dickens Fellowship held another of its enjoyable monthly meetings last night in the Women's Institute Hall, Fort Street. The members listened with interest to two contributions. One was from Major R. A. Donald, who read a summary of the reflections of Cecil Roberts, English author, on Charles Dickens and his characters with a description of some portions of the works of Dickens. The other was a reading by A. W. Arnup, vice-president of the fellowship.

Mr. Arnup aptly described some of the old London characters and street cries familiar in the days of Dickens, which served to revive latent memories of "Dickensland." The cries included those of the chimney sweep, cat-in-the-hat, fireman, sweet lavender, hot potato man, watercress seller, the muffin man, the old town crier, night-watcher, old Moore's Almanac, and the milkman. All were graphically described by Mr. Arnup.

The meeting was presided over by H. L. Fenaham, president, who presided over the annual Christmas dinner at the Victoria Hotel, and extended a cordial welcome to the members to visit the fellowship at the Victoria Hotel.

Arrangements were advanced for the annual Christmas hamper and the Christmas banquet. Mrs. Joan Kennedy, secretary, will have charge of the executive arrangements.

BRITAIN AND FRANCE REJECT ITALY'S OFFER

"There are grounds for belief," the spokesman said, that statesmen of the two countries are considering the offer.

Again today—just before the spokesman gave this guarded but significant hint—Sir Eric Drummond, the British Ambassador, was in the city, where he was expected to discuss the offer with the under-secretary for foreign affairs.

TALKING AND MARCHING

Even as the diplomats of Italy and Great Britain talked, Mussolini's foreign secretary, Count Ciano, was making a deeper into the Ethiopian capital, Addis Ababa, in an official communiqué, and in the meantime a drive for funds to finance the war.

Mussolini opened public subscription for a huge conversion loan. Bankers estimated about 9,000,000 lire would be obtained if all holders of 2½ per cent bonds exchanged them for the new 5 per cent issue. (The lire was worth about eight cents.)

Official circles here expressed belief continuing conversations between Mussolini and Sir Eric Drummond, the British Ambassador, were a tonic for Europe's tense international situation.

Project Committee To Meet Wednesday On $100,000 Loan

THE special committee appointed to consider what projects shall be undertaken with the $100,000 to be loaned the city by the Provincial Government for relief work, will meet Wednesday morning to prepare a list of recommendations to the City Council.

Apart from the erection of a grandstand at Macdonald Park, which it is considered will be a revenue-producing project, all other works to be recommended are understood to be of a public works character designed to keep the city's physical assets in a state of good repair.

Laval, these sources said, will transfer the proposals to London as soon as debate in the British Parliament this week on the international situation is ended.

Miss Nichols and her pilot were taken to Samaritan hospital in a farm truck and were removed immediately to an emergency operating room. At the hospital, Dr. Emmott Howd said late today:

"We don't know for two or three days whether Miss Nichols definitely will live. A favorable sign is the fact that she rallied this afternoon and I can describe her condition as fairly good, although the shock has been terrible and she is still suffering intensely from pain."

Miss Nichols is suffering from severe burns and numerous fractures.

ONE MOTOR FAILS

Ground witnesses apparently were agreed that the left motor failed on the take-off and the ship was headed back for the airport when it lost airway and dropped suddenly to within fifty feet of the ground.

Whoever was at the controls, probably Hubblitt, apparently brought the nose up to avert a crash when the ship was caught between two big trees in a farmhouse yard.

He threw himself into his new task, and in September, 1924, in an attempt to relieve himself of heavy responsibilities, resigned the secretaryship of the Labor Party—a position he had held for twenty-three years.

A year earlier, he had returned to the Commons, but disarrangement had become his main work. He characterized his work as one of "difficulties, delays, disappointments and hopes deferred."

In addition to the Nobel prize, his efforts for promotion of peace in 1925 won him the Waterloo award.

NOTED LABOR LEADER DEAD

Arthur Henderson Passes Away—Was President of Arms Conference

LONDON, Oct. 21 (P).—Arthur Henderson, noted British labor leader and president of the World Disarmament Conference, died last night.

The seventy-two-year-old British statesman, who won the Nobel Peace Prize in 1934, died in a West End nursing home, less than a month after undergoing an operation. He had been suffering from jaundice, due to a gallstone condition.

The one-time iron moulder, who rose to become one of the builders of the British Labor Party, trod the world's stage as a disappointed but undiscouraged advocate of world disarmament.

CONFIDENT TO THE END

His health undermined, his path strewn with difficulties, he carried on with little show for three years his labors in the cause of peace, confident, he said, "The conference will go on to reach an effective convention."

Henderson was Foreign Secretary when the Council of the League of Nations elected him president of the Disarmament Conference, but he was neither a minister nor a member of Parliament by the time it met in 1932.

The National Government landed in 1931 cost him his seat in the Commons, and left only the remnants of the party he had helped to build.

MANY YEARS IN POST

Trafalgar Memory Is Kept Bright by Navy League in City

Admiral Lord Nelson's Famous Signal Hoisted at Legislative Buildings on 130th Anniversary of Decisive Naval Engagement

SURMOUNTED by the White Ensign of the Royal Navy, Admiral Lord Nelson's famous signal to the fleet at Trafalgar Bay, October 21, 1805, was flown from the flagstaff at the Legislative Buildings yesterday, in a brief and impressive ceremony, under the auspices of the Navy League of Canada.

Brigadier D. J. MacDonald, D.S.O., a magnificent floral anchor and M.C., officer commanding Military District No. 11; Com. G. C. Jones, R.C.N., senior naval officer, Esquimalt; Lieut.-Col. C. B. Russell; and Victoria officials of the Navy League of Canada and other patriotic groups were represented at the ceremony. Alderman Dr. J. D. Hunter spoke on behalf of the City.

COLORFUL CEREMONY

Drawn up facing the flagstaff and cenotaph at 10 a.m. was a smart company of the Rainbow Sea Cadets, with their own band. Facing them were picked details from Victoria Boy Scout and Wolf Cub troops. Surrounding the base of the monument were executives of the Navy League and invited guests, who later decorated the plinth with

Speaking on the significance of Trafalgar, Alderman Hunter stressed the courage, daring and devotion to duty of Admiral Lord Nelson and the men under him at the decisive battle of Trafalgar, where Britain defeated the combined might of France and Spain.

In Sacred City of Aksum

The original tablets of Moses are said to be hidden in this ancient church in Aksum, Ethiopia's holy city, which fell before the advancing troops of Italy. Aksum is held in reverence by all Ethiopians and holds an important place in the nation's history, having been the coronation city for all rulers preceding Haile Selassie.

Nelson died from wounds on the deck of his flagship.

It was given to few, continued Alderman Hunter, to reach such heights of achievement and to pass in the middle of their finest victory.

It was open to all to follow the paths of duty earnestly and conscientiously, and for that reason Lord Nelson's message was of undying significance to the British Empire.

Briefly, Alderman Hunter sketched the life and achievements of the famous admiral, told what depended on the outcome of the battle of

INDIAN TRIAL NEARING END

All Evidence Concluded in Case of Brothers Held For Murder

VANCOUVER, Oct. 21 (P.)—The murder trial of the four Indian George brothers neared its end today as all evidence for the Crown and defence was concluded and Defence Counsel Stuart Henderson prepared to open his address to the jury tomorrow.

Alex, Eneas and Richardson George were convicted sixteen months ago of the murder of Dominion Indian Constable F. H. Glabourne at the Canford Reserve, near Merritt, B.C. The Court of Appeal ordered a new trial, at which Joseph George was also charged with the murder along with his brothers. He had been injured during a fight, at the reserve and Glabourne and Provincial Constable Percy Carr, also slain.

THE TRUTH NOW

Joseph, who with Eneas appeared on a witness stand, result of injuries received when the police were returning them to Oakalla Jail last week after court sessions collided with an ambulance, told the court today that what he said now was the truth.

"I may have given that evidence; but what I say now I am sure," the bandage-swathed Indian said when cross-examined, regarding a discrepancy in his testimony with that which he gave at the Appeal Court hearing a year ago.

Attorney-General Sloan insisted on a direct answer and said he would keep the witness in the witness box until he gave such an answer.

"What is the use, Mr. Sloan?" queried Chief Justice Aubrey Morrison. "He has already given the same answer three times."

The point was whether he had previously stated that Eneas had stabbed his wife, Mary, the report of which led the two constables to the reserve to investigate the night they were slain.

"Did you know that Glabourne came to arrest Eneas?" asked the Attorney-General.

"I know, but wouldn't it have been better if he came in the daytime and not at night," Joseph replied.

The witness added that he and his brothers, Richardson and Alex, were going to take Eneas to Merrie Magdora, where they were afraid he might commit suicide.

Eneas said, according to Joseph, "I have been together with my wife very long time and now she is hurt, whether I hurt her or not."

Joseph said he did not hear Eneas and Richardson say they would "lick" the policemen if they came to the reserve.

The case is expected to go to the jury tomorrow.

BIRTH OF GYRO IN OHIO IS RECALLED

No man liveth unto himself, and we grow as individuals only by taking part in community projects, William C. Hudson told members of the Gyro Club at the Empress Hotel yesterday in speaking of the birth of Gyro at Cleveland, Ohio, in 1912.

Mr. Hudson related that the club had its inception among a group of men who wished to retain existing friendships and make new ones. Activities were curtailed somewhat by the war, he said, but now there were seventy-seven Gyro Clubs in Canada and the United States with 1,500 members. He believed that service clubs were of great benefit to humanity.

The Maori warriors tattoo their faces because it discloses or masks any expression of fear.

MEMBERSHIP DRIVE

The dinner last night served a three-fold purpose. It was an observance of "Founders' Day"; the sixtieth anniversary of the establishment of the Y.M.C.A. here; and it was an opportunity for the members of the membership drive campaign to compare notes on the progress of the canvass for new members. Team captains reported a total of 190 members recruited to date, an increase of thirty members over a similar period of the 1934 campaign.

The programme was divided into two sections with E. G. Rowbottom, chairman of the membership drive campaign, and H. B. Witter in charge of the "Founders' Day" part of the affair.

Mr. Rowbottom reported the progress of the drive to date was most satisfactory and announced the next meeting of captains and major would be held on Friday night at the Y.M.C.A.

Showing their interest and the interest of the organizations in the work of the Y.M.C.A., presidents of five service clubs were present as guests. They were Herbert J. Penney, Rotary Club; Rowan W. MacKenzie, Kiwanis; Waldo Skilling, Jr., Gyro; Thomas Stevenson, Revellers, and R. Shanks, Kinsmen.

VETERANS' PRESENT

The head table was reserved for guests and "veterans" of other membership campaigns, and included: W. H. Bone, Dr. T. W. A. Gray, A. E. Mallett, J. O. Cameron, J. B. Clearhugh, J. H. Baker, W. B. Fisher, E. M. Whyte, F. Bayless, W. E. Standland and G. D. Christie.

The following members of campaign teams were also present: Majors, Warren Martin, Norval Peterson; W. C. Hudson, J. V. Johnson; captains of sections, S. J. D. Clark, S. Winterbottom, Walter Jeanne, J. A. Heritage, W. M. Scott, Harvey Bailey, Samuel Hill, Rev. C. G. MacKenzie, Rev. G. A. Reynolds, E. Harrison, G. G. Fraser and W. Billingsley.

During the dinner programme, tributes were paid to the officers and members of the staff of the institution and it was announced that a musical programme of the laying of the cornerstone of the present building—in 1910—had been presented by Mrs. R. B. McKicking. As entertainment, members and guests joined in communal singing and heard two piano accordion solos by "Lindy" Lindstrom.

Ice skates were known as long ago at least as the tenth or eleventh century, when they were mentioned in the Icelandic Edda.

ANNIVERSARY IS OBSERVED

Sixtieth Year Since Founding of Y.M.C.A. in Victoria Marked With Banquet

Some of the problems that confronted the early sponsors and officers of the Young Men's Christian Association during its sixty years' existence as the mainstay of youth in Victoria, were related at the anniversary dinner held last night at the Empress Hotel. The life's history of the institution was told by three entertaining speakers who unfolded stories of courage and sacrifice of the sponsors and officers from the year of its establishment here in 1875 to the present. The speakers were E. E. Wootton, who covered the history from 1875 to 1900; E. W. Whittington, who told the story of the Y.M.C.A. from 1900 to 1920; and G. Howell, who carried on from 1920 to 1935. In each of the three addresses, the speakers mentioned the problems and how they were successfully overcome by the true Y.M.C.A. spirit.

SEEK TO KEEP ACTION ALIVE

Case Originating in Seattle May Come Here by Way of Kalamazoo

In Supreme Court chambers here yesterday, Mr. Justice Fisher heard applications respecting the case of Maria Romano vs. John Magdora, which has been in the court here and also in Seattle for some time.

In the Washington court the plaintiffs secured a judgment against the defendant, who formerly lived here in the amount of $2,212. It was set out that the defendant in the action had not been present at the trial in Seattle and that he had not read a document which was handed to him presumably by Kenneth Hanna, who is alleged also to have said he did not know the contents of the sealed letter.

In the British Columbia court, Mr. Justice Fisher had held there was room for action in the British Columbia court on the material presented.

GRANTS APPLICATION

Yesterday H. W. R. Moore, for the plaintiff, asked for leave to have Kenneth Hanna examined in Kalamazoo, Michigan, where he now resides. This was opposed by E. V. Finland, for the defendant, on the ground that there was evidence that Hanna had said he did not know the contents of the letter. Mr. Justice Fisher allowed the application for leave to examine by commission. Mr. Finland gave notice of his intention to appeal against the decision.

On the other hand, Mr. Finland asked for the putting up of a $200 security for costs in connection with the British Columbia proceedings. This also was allowed by Mr. Justice Fisher.

LABOR'S NEW LEADER
Major Clement R. Atlee, the new leader of Great Britain's parliamentary Labor Party, is out in his views. He has had a chequered political career. He started as an Imperialist and a tariff reformer. Then he became a convert to Socialism. In 1910 he was secretary of Toynbee Hall, a lecturer at Ruskin College and he has been tutor and lecturer in social science in the London School of Economics. His appointment to the leadership of the Labor Party has been brought about by the resignation of Mr. George Lansbury, who cannot agree with Labor's endorsement of the application of sanctions in the Italo-Ethiopian dispute. There is now a certain confusion in the ranks of Labor. Major Atlee, who will lead the party in the coming election campaign, is one of those Laborites who does not dread an extension to Europe of the Ethiopian war.
Major Atlee served in the Great War. He was at Gallipoli, in Mesopotamia and on the Western front. In 1924 he was under Secretary of War, and in 1931 he became Postmaster-General. He is a pronounced free trader. He opposes the Ottawa Agreements. The leadership of Labor under his driving power will be far more formidable than it was when Mr. Lansbury was at the helm. Major Atlee's first task politically will be to cope with the dissonance in the ranks of his own party because of the activities of the Pacifist wing, a task which may be made all the more difficult if Mr. Lansbury, as he has promised, tours the country in his opposition to the imposition of sanctions on Italy. His task comes, too, when a general election is in the offing. Major Atlee will be highly tried and his retention of the office of which he has been appointed may well depend on the character of his conduct of the political campaign on behalf of his party in an election which is expected next month.

MR. ARTHUR HENDERSON
Labor in Great Britain has lost perhaps its safest, sanest and most broad-minded advocate in the death of Mr. Arthur Henderson. His career began prior to Labor's bid for political power. He was one of the earliest of the stalwarts who carried the banner of trade unionism into Westminster, the contemporary of the late Mr. John Burns, of Mr. Philip Snowden, now Lord Snowden, of Bowerman of Deptford, Crooks of Woolwich, Thorne of South-West Ham and Steadman of Central Finsbury. Death has removed some of those figures in the early struggle of the Labor Party for political recognition. Mr. Henderson was one of the last of the old guard who laid the foundations of the third political party in Great Britain.
Mr. Henderson in his political career had earned a widespread measure of confidence from all shades of thought. This culminated in his appointment as chairman of the Disarmament Conference in which post he wrought with all his ability to foster the collective idea on behalf of peace. If he failed it was through no personal fault, and there was no loss of respect for the energy and enthusiasm he devoted to the task. He has passed on with a higher reputation for singleness of purpose and sincerity in outlook than any of his Labor contemporaries. He had developed to a high degree a temperate mind, than which there are few more desirable assets to bring to bear on the problems of the time.

IRISH FARMERS SUFFERING
The extent of the losses sustained by the farmers of the Irish Free State has been due less to depressed years than because of the economic dispute with Great Britain which started in 1932. That dispute still exists and has been a serious detriment to the agricultural industry of the Free State. Cattle used to be exported to Great Britain in large quantities. In 1928 the value of such exports was £13,169,194. In 1934 that value had fallen to £4,257,922, and because of the special taxes imposed by the British Government a sum of £2,494,235 was deducted from the normal market price.
The hard lot of the Free State cattle raisers is only in a small way due to the depression. It is the quarrel of the De Valera Government with Great Britain that has brought them distress, and in the face of the character of that distress it is remarkable how the De Valera regime continues to thrive. There is another aspect which emphasizes how those farmers have suffered. Between 1928 and 1931 the average export price of cattle dropped from £17 11s to £16 11s per head. From 1931 to 1934 it dropped from £16 11s to £8 6s. Since the days of the potato famine it is doubtful if Irish agriculture has sustained a heavier blow than it has under the policies of its present Government at Dublin.

A CONTRAST
Whatever may be said of Mr. R. B. Bennett and his personality, he is the true sportsman, as great in defeat as in victory. In his statement on the result of the election there was no trace of rancour or bitterness, no evidence whatever of disappointment. He had fought a good fight and had lost, and that was all there was about it. There was nothing but strength and dignity in his utterances. He expressed good wishes to his victorious opponent; he referred to the pride he had felt in serving his country, and he gave his thanks to those who had supported him in the late election. He is the statesman equal to either fortune. How different, how very different, his sportsmanlike appraisal of the late election as compared with that of Mr. Mackenzie King, the Premier-designate. The latter made a sad blunder in his comment on the result. It was the outpouring of a vindictive spirit. There is obviously a vast difference in the characters of the two men.

SCIENTIFIC NOSE-BLOWING
The common habits of life are sometimes carried out to excess, and in connection with some of them physical harm often ensues. Not once but many times medical experts have called attention to the importance of performing the nose-blowing operation in a scientific and hygienic manner. They have emphasized how first one nostril and then the other should be blown without undue violence. There are not many who follow this advice. There have been instances where, because precaution has not been exercised, deafness has ensued.
The opinion of the medical faculty is that the two nasal passages should never be closed at the same time. It is explained that if they are obstructed, as in the case of a cold, the back of the throat is filled with compressed air, and this, together with the discharge and the microbes which it contains, may be driven through the Eustachian tube into the middle ear and lead to serious results. There was once an authority on the subject who forbade his patients to blow their noses when suffering from a cold. This is advice which perhaps no one follows, because relief from discomfort is sought. Nevertheless cold sufferers should exercise much more care than they do, and above all when they must blow their noses it should be done gently, and one nostril at a time. There is no doubt danger in too violent methods.

FRANCE'S FALLING BIRTH-RATE
France is again disturbed about its falling birth-rate, especially in relation to the population increase taking place in Germany. In France the annual number of births has fallen by 312,000 between 1928 and 1932, and by 40,000 since 1932. In the first quarter of the present year there were 10,000 fewer births than in the corresponding period of 1934. On the other hand, in Germany there were 225,000 more births in 1934 than in 1933, and 47,000 more in the first quarter of 1935 than in the corresponding period of 1934. France this year will have approximately 650,000 births, whereas Germany will have approximately 1,300,000. The Government is being urged to have a positive population policy.
Mr. H. H. Stevens must be still ruminating on the consequences of his political apostasy. He has had a partial revenge on his former leader, for in from forty to fifty constituencies in the country the combined Conservative and Reconstructionist vote was greater than that of the successful Liberal candidate. Mr. Stevens did not achieve his goal because he was not the cause of Mr. Bennett's defeat, but he reduced Conservative representation in the House of Commons to about one-half of what it ought to be in the present state of public opinion.

The late election was notable in many ways and established more than one record for Canada. It afforded the unique spectacle of a Communist candidate saving his deposit, but that was in the case of Mr. Tim Buck, who received thousands of votes of a sympathetic character from those who are not Communists.

The luck of governments is expressed in economic conditions. The tide of adversity swept Mr. Bennett from office. He has the consolation, however, of knowing that he did his job well, but the stars in their course fought against him.

A SAMPLE OF WHAT IS MEANT
Small words are best. Leave the long ones to those who need to show they have been to school. Short words have force. Most of the strong thoughts and acts and hopes of men take short words to tell them. Might and right, strength, faith, are words of just one sound each.
And such words speak well in small groups. From start to the full stop need be but a few sounds—each sound a word, each word a punch, and the whole a cause won. Things for which men feel are words held each in a small word. Things they love, too, like trees and grass and lakes and the sea, the blooms in the yard by the door. Things they hate need not be said, nor things they fear, but these, too, can be felt in the sweep of a short string of short words.
More could be found to say for words of one sound, for chains of words with few links. This should show that one can talk long though he uses short words, and he may say less in long ones and more of them.

Whatever day makes man a slave takes half his worth away.
—Pope.
He who would be happy must have an object in life. The words are not ours. Candidly we do not know whose words they are; but we are almost sure that with whomsoever they originated, they have been repeated by many persons who believed they were giving currency to a new philosophical abstract truth. The point to be made is that in this connection it is to have an object in life is to have an interest in life and that when life ceases to be interesting it is no longer worth living.

The extensive fire at Nanaimo on Monday night is thought to have been caused by an incendiary, at the warehouse of Mann & Company were burned sixteen motors and on the same site. The warehouse and store buildings of Mann & Company were owned by William Earl, the postmaster, and insured for $1,000. The loss of Mann & Company is estimated at $12,000. As they had just received a large consignment from Eastern Canada, with an insurance of $25,000, the above fire is a serious blow to the business of the Commercial Insurance Company, represented in this city by Donald Smith. In addition, Mr. Mann estimates the loss on his private household furniture at $500, no insurance. The loss of Thompson & Kennedy is estimated at $1,500, with an insurance of $100 in the City of London Insurance Company.

CULBERTSON on CONTRACT
By Ely Culbertson
World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst
ANANIAS COULD TAKE LESSONS
With one fatal wag of his tongue Ananias won a reputation for lying which still is the standard after nearly 2,000 years. As a matter of fact, he was a rank amateur compared with a lot of highly respectable people who play—or play at—bridge. The worst of it is they're the souls of truth in everything else and if you openly—and justly—accused them of lying, you'd have the privilege of choosing your weapons at dawn.
They make opening bids of one spade on ♠KQJ1098, ♥76, ♦543, ♣98, just because the spade looks pretty and will take five tricks as trumps. They don't realize they are lying, although an opening bid says, "I have two and a half honor tricks," and they are one honor trick short. And, on other hands, they rebid and rebid the same values, while the score sheet costs go up and up.
The first precept of contract bidding is: "Lie to your opponents all you wish, but do not lie to your partner." The language of bidding is extremely limited. Every permitted word carries a wealth of unspoken meaning as to the strength and distribution of a hand. Without reference to psychic bidding, which is a department all its own, those who prevaricate in their use of bidding words head their partnership directly toward disaster.
The most pertinent fact the bridge player can absorb is that every bid he makes is an estimate of the number of tricks he thinks he and his partner can take. Every new bid he makes is a new estimate, an upward revision of his first calculation. If he makes his new estimate without any sounder foundation than hope, he is in the Ananias zone and asking for trouble. When he once has told the full story of his hand, there is safety only in silence. Many people have been hanged for talking too much, very few for keeping quiet when they had nothing new to say.

COUNTING THIRTEEN
Sometimes the bidding reveals the nature of both partners' hands so well that one of them can mentally play the hand before the bidding is completed. In the deal below South could count thirteen winning cards in the combined hands, so he bid a grand slam.

Economic Systems Offer Many Routes To Man's Problems

Prof. H. F. Angus Discusses Basis of Wealth and Other Questions in Opening University Extension Course—Books Recommended

"SOCIAL justice would be a condition whereby every man would receive his due. Then the question becomes: What is man's due?" said Prof. H. F. Angus, head of the economics department of the University of British Columbia, in the course of his discussion of "Do We Live in an Age of Potential Plenty?" the opening lecture of a group of four lectures on economics that he is giving here under the auspices of the University Extension Society.

With the idea, apparently, of dependence then we have today, stimulating interest in the books. But the reason that this has not been realized is that we have not the best sort of economic organization. Angus said his lecture chiefly in the form of intimations and questions rather than direct statements. A number of questions asked at the close of the lecture were similarly treated, the speaker suggesting that these anticipated the subjects to be treated in later talks.

BASES OF WEALTH

"What," he asked in beginning his lecture last night, "are the bases of wealth? How do we produce wealth?" The classical answer in the old books was that wealth was produced by means of land, labor or capital—land in the sense of natural resources of every kind, including water power, sunlight, mines, etc.; labor in the sense of every form of human effort, whether by hand or brain; and capital in the sense of tools used in production. Prof. Angus wished to supplement these by two more: man's scientific knowledge, and organization. A people with an advanced education should be people who could think, and who, owing to better co-ordination of ideas, could produce more. Also, a society that was organized should produce more. No country was safe economically unless organized.

"You may have the will to have an army, but you will not have an army until you have organization," he said to illustrate this argument. "When we are told that we live in an age of plenty, what is usually meant is that we have the man power, the natural resources, the buildings, railways, ships, factories, and the scientific knowledge which, if used to the full, could give man greater economic strength and in-

TWO ANSWERS

Two lines of argument might be given in discussing the matter of better methods of creating and distributing wealth, viz., either that we did not know what was the best sort of organization; or, that we did know the best type of organization, but could not put it into force because there were groups of people in the community who put obstructions in the way. There were many schools of opinion as to what were the best methods. Up to the present there was no experience, based on trial, to show the efficacy of these. The more diffident people, who did not know which of the recommended schools to follow, might be excused for their ignorance. In his four lectures, Prof. Angus said, he hoped to discuss some of these recommended methods.

While labor was not being used to the full extent at present; while material, equipment and machinery was greater than was being used; while man's knowledge of how to produce was greater than in past generations, incomes were not proportionately greater to enable the absorption of the increased production that was possible. That discrepancy, it was maintained, was due to faulty organization and man's psychological incapacity to be much better off than he was today.

CONSUMED LESS

The possession of immense natural resources did not necessarily connote wealth. There were enormous natural resources in this coun-

Making Landing Fields

Progress is being made on the trans-Canada airway with the continued work on the intermediate fields, junction airports, training quarters, radio stations and hangars. Some 12,000 men are at present engaged on the various projects for single homeless unemployed, while work on contract and regular wages goes on at new barracks and training sites. Photos show work progress on air field this Summer. At top is new field at Coleman, Alta., under the shadow of the Rockies. Centre, workers' camp at Emerald, Ont. try when it was inhabited only by Indians. But they were not wealthy in our sense of the word; they had not organized these natural resources. The great accumulations of capital had occurred owing to "historical accidents" whereby certain people gained control of great wealth and it became concentrated in a few hands. But in order to do this the will to amass wealth had to be there. The classes that had saved had enabled the great accumulations of capital to come into being.

Professor Angus, however, made a distinction between wealth as found in the stored hoards of gold in British India, and wealth as understood in business and industry. There was a difference between wealth created by an ability to save and wealth created by an ability to borrow. The solutions offered were out-and-out. Socialism, the complete abolition of the search for personal profit as a motive in production, and the replacement of that by some degree of economic control and planning; by monetary reform; or by a planned capitalism. Planned capitalism was a matter of degree. What was meant by it was a great deal more planning than had been experimented with up to the present. Learning by experimentation, by trial and error, was a very painful way of learning, he said.

POINT CLEAR IS RELEASED

Freighter Bound for New Orleans With "One-Way-Only" Crew

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 21 (AP).—The Swayne & Hoyt freighter Point Clear, blocked for more than three months by maritime union pickets on the San Francisco waterfront, was en route today for New Orleans with a crew signed on for "one way only."

Release of the Point Clear Saturday ended a dispute over so-called "hot cargo," which it had brought here from British Columbia, where a waterfront strike was in progress. The union crew, in signing to take the vessel out, reserved the right to leave ship at New Orleans, where a longshoremen's strike is in progress. A similar arrangement for the freighter Point Ancha was reported at San Pedro.

STILL BLOCKADED

Another vessel involved in a dispute, the General M. H. Sherman, was released at San Pedro, but the Pacific American Shipowners' Association said three boats were under picket blockade along the coast. They were the Shepard Line freighters Timberrush at Portland; the Admiral Senn at Oakland, and the Point Judith at Seattle. The Shipowners' Association said the tie-ups involved disputes over cargo and fuel boycotted by unions, overtime pay demands and employment of a Columbia River pilot for the Timberrush.

Scattered actions of the union seamen in leaving vessels was criticized by the publication of the International Longshoremen's Association here. It said the seamen were "playing with strikes and that only a few members of the International Seamen's Union were responsible."

It was reported that the Seamen's Union, in a move to bring an end to the recurrent conflicts, was planning a coast-wide ballot on the question of accepting the present working agreement with employers without amendments that had been asked.

Meanwhile, registration of 500 additional longshoremen was under way here. The new men will fill vacancies which have occurred since

NOTED AUTHOR GIVES LECTURE

Dr. Alex Irvine Tells of Life Experiences in Cause of Christianity

"To you young people I want to say that you will not be persecuted for professing Christianity," but when you utter a protest against conditions under which you live you will then know what the sacrifice of the Cross meant," declared Dr. Alex Irvine, author and lecturer, at the close of an address before a large gathering in the Fairfield United Church last night.

Dr. Irvine told the story of his life under the title of "The Celtic Pilgrimage," and openly declared himself as a "rebel" against that state of society that makes crime easy, and that makes the living of an honest life a colossal task.

Painting a word picture of his humble beginning in Antrim, Ireland, Dr. Irvine told of "a strangely beautiful mystical experience." It was the birth of a soul, he declared, and the subsequent accounts of his life showed how that experience influenced him through his career.

TRACES LIFE

He traced his life from the time he left home to work in the coal mines near Glasgow, how he later joined the marines, and at the age of nineteen commenced his long march toward intellectual life, first beginning to learn to read and write, and of how later by sheer indomitable spirit he won for himself an Oxford and Yale education, and how he was first persuaded to write by Jack London.

Throughout his career he fought against those who did not wish to hear the real truths of Christianity, he declared. He was primarily a fighter for the laboring class, and as a champion of this class he had to face many vicissitudes.

He concluded his address with a kidnapping experience of his own in the Imperial Valley, and how after being rescued by Divine intervention he declined to bring a charge against his kidnappers, but proposed to go back to California to again utter his protest against existing conditions among the laboring class despite the vigilantes and their efforts to frustrate his purpose.

The lecture was preceded by a group of two vocal solos by Arthur Jackman, Cyril C. Warren was the accompanist.

Prior to the lecture, the Women's Auxiliary held a banquet in honor of the church's anniversary, at which more than 150 persons were present.

On Sunday, Dr. Irvine spoke at the morning and evening services to large congregations. He will be heard again tonight in the Memorial Hall, where he will be sponsored by the John Howard Society.

He was also owner of the Gray Block on Commercial Street.

The Man on the Flying Trapeze

flies through the air with the greatest of ease

... a dangerous and difficult feat; one calling for speed, daring, clear vision and sureness of a very exceptional order. Day after day he brings a new thrill to thousands of eager onlookers—people of all ages, sex and variety.

Possibly our comparison may seem a little far-fetched but where could be found a more appropriate analogy for the daily newspaper? Difficult obstacles must be and are overcome daily.

SPEED?... Where else could you find another medium so gripping, so intense, so alive, that is published almost hourly? Where else is daring so ably exemplified as here where statements are published, upon which the continued existence of the paper itself depends?

... THE thoughts and ambitions of our people rely greatly upon the clear vision, foresight and keen judgment of men who formulate the policies of newspapers. In no other medium is the same inherent surety—giving to its advertisers and readers alike that spirit of confidence which marks the most powerful and influential advertising medium of modern life—THE DAILY NEWSPAPER.

Your Health and Your Weight
MORE ABOUT HOT WEATHER REDUCING

By JAS. W. BARTON, M.D.
There are some individuals whose weight never changes. I have met a number—at least a dozen—who remained at the same weight for as long as twenty years or more. However most of us put on three to five pounds during the cool weather and lose it again when the warm comes. This very fact teaches a very simple lesson—our weight depends upon the food we eat and the amount of work done or exercise taken.

It is naturally a difficult matter for the overweight to cut down his food intake during the cool weather. About three-fourths of the food we eat is needed to supply heat and energy to the body, even if we did absolutely no work—in fact if we were actually living in fact. The other fourth of the food we eat is used, or should be used, by work of exercise.

Unfortunately our overweight friends, because the air is cool, find that their appetite is a little sharper and they eat more of the food which creates heat and store fat on the body, that is the starch foods—potatoes, bread, sugar, pastry and the fat foods—cream, butter and fat meats.

Now this extra starch and fat would be all right if they would use it up by outdoor exercise, but because they are overweight, are eating more food, are really a little heavier, they feel less like exercise despite the cool weather.

What about the warm weather for reducing weight? In the first place, there is not the same "need" for food, as the body doesn't need quite as much food for heating purposes; secondly, any exercise or work, however little, helps to take fat off the body and of course with every pound of fat, over three pounds of water come off along with it. It is only natural, of course, that during warm weather more liquids will be taken to replace the water lost by perspiration, and in fact, for any reason, water makes or increases weight. Fat opens up its tissues and holds a great amount of water.

Jane Dixon Says:
IT'S A GRAND OLD WORLD, FILLED WITH A LOT OF GREAT-HEARTED PEOPLE

Helpful hints and encouraging thoughts come to me to this column for Mrs. H. H. the distraught widow threatened with having to part with her two small children because of financial straits. I'm sure she must feel strengthened to know there are so many people who are willing to give a lift to one in distress.

How often it happens that in our hour of need a stranger steps forward and saves us from despair! Only the stranger is not a stranger at all.

Love of our fellow-man makes the whole world akin. One suggestion that appealed to me as being most practical came from a woman who helped another widow make a success of the plan by patronizing her generously.

The widow in question, left to provide for herself and her little ones, took stock of her accomplishments, which were solely of the household variety. What did she do in her home that caused the most comment among her friends and the members of her family? What gave them the most material pleasure? Meat pies!

THEY SOLVE HER PROBLEM
The most popular items on her pantry shelf were the meat pies she served as a special treat. If they were as good as she had been told, others would buy them. She baked a small line of samples, all sizes. She went from door to door, asking other housewives to sample them, and if they approved, to give her orders for more. Her venture was a success from the beginning. She does the baking—meat pies small and large and in between. Her children deliver them. Not only her own neighborhood, but surrounding districts, have become meat-pie conscious, and a happy little family has been saved from disintegration. My hat is off to that widow. I hope her fame spreads until every home within trucking distance, and even beyond, has a meat-pie day on its culinary schedule.

A CHANCE FOR HER SON
Another note comes from H. W. Hook, Honeybrook, Pa. He says he is the owner of a $400 popcorn machine and that he wants to sell it, trade it, or put it to work on a commission basis. There's an idea for Mrs. H. H.'s twenty-year-old son, who has been unable to obtain work.

Clara R. Ross begs Mrs. H. H. to stop worrying and weeping during the hours when she should be getting her natural rest. "We have a Great Burden Bearer," writes Clara Ross, "but we must trust Him. We must cast our fear. When our hearts are filled with fear there is no room for faith and hope. I hope that a way will be opened for this despairing mother, and I have faith that it will be."

"Unaided" advises Mrs. H. H. to stop worrying and to conserve all her strength for finding a way out.

A LETTER FROM BRITISH COLUMBIA
"Don't take a chance on starting a store about which you know nothing," continues Unaided. "Use the insurance money for living expenses as far as it will go. Practically every community has some organization for the assistance of mothers. Try to find such an organization, and I'm sure you will get the help you need."

All the way from Victoria, British Columbia, comes a cheering letter from R. E. R. He has no suggestion for material aid, but he sends along Biblical comfort in such quotations as: "The Lord preserveth the strangers. He relieveth the fatherless and widows."

"If any of you lack wisdom, let him ask of God, that giveth to all men liberally and upbraideth not, and it shall be given him."

He adds his prayers, his best wishes for success, and the assurance that he will do anything he can to starve that success on its way. It's a grand old world, filled with a lot of great-hearted people. We never know how many until we start looking for them.

Many Enjoy Talent by Young Folk

The Juvenile Branch of the Eurydice Art Club presented an attractive and varied programme before a large and appreciative audience at the Victoria Women's Institute on Saturday. Prior to the concert a short business meeting was held with the president, Jean Ray, in the chair.

Reports were read by Robin Wood, the secretary, and Freda Natrass, treasurer, who conducted their first executive meeting in a business-like manner, taught under the guidance of Mrs. McKicking.

The programme, arranged by Eva Aldridge, was opened by Illice Roskelley, one of the youngest members in the society, who recited and dedicated poem to the club entitled "Eurydice Art," which received such enthusiastic applause that it was repeated later on in the afternoon. chard rendered selections on the piano which were greatly enjoyed. Floodie Ray gave a clever imitation of "Shirley Temple" in her popular song, "When I Grow Up," and also a graceful exhibition of tap dancing. Miss Marjory Symonds, guest artist, gave a recitation. Hugh Vernon-Jackson brought the programme to a close with a Hawaiian dance, his own interpretation. Under the co-sponsorship of Netta Hunter, refreshments were served, followed by a social hour.

Little Stories for Bedtime

Handsone, Happy Chicoree

By THORNTON W. BURGESS

"Did you ever see a happier fellow than my cousin, Chicoree?" demanded Linnet the Purple Finch of Peter Rabbit, as they watched Chicoree coming toward them. "I venture to say that he has been having such a good time that he hasn't even thought of building a nest, and here half the people in the Old Orchard have grown families. I've got a nest and eggs myself, but that madcap is just roaming about having a good time. Isn't that so, Chicoree?"

"Isn't what?" demanded Chicoree, perching very near to where Linnet was sitting.

"Isn't it true that you haven't even begun thinking about a nest?" demanded Linnet.

"Quite true, but what of it?" said Chicoree. "There's time enough to think about nest-building and household cares later. Meanwhile, I'm enjoying myself."

"Quite true, but what of it?" said Chicoree need needs, so there is no sense in trying to raise a family until they can find plenty of seeds when needed. How do you like my Summer suit, Peter?"

"It's beautiful," cried Peter. "That black cap certainly is very smart and becoming."

Chicoree cocked his head on one side the better to show off that black cap. The rest of his head and his whole body were bright yellow. His wings were black with two white bars on each. His tail also was black with some white in it. In size he was a trifle smaller than Linnet and altogether one of the smartest dressed of all the little people who wear feathers. It was a joy just to look at him. If Peter had known anything about canaries, which, of course, he didn't, because canaries are always kept in cages, he would have understood how Chicoree is often called the Wild Canary.

"I suppose," said Peter, "it sounds foolish of me to ask if you are a member of the same family as Linnet."

"Very foolish, Peter, very foolish," laughed Chicoree. "We belong to the same family, and a mighty fine family it is. Now I must go over to the Old Pasture to see how the thistles are coming on."

"Away he flew, calling 'Chicoree, per Chicoree, chicoree!' As he flew he rose and fell in the air in much the same way Yellow-wing the Flicker does."

INVESTIGATING THE EFFECTS OF DINITROPHENOL—THE WEIGHT REDUCING DRUG

Just as the eighteen-day diet caused considerable concern to the medical profession—hundreds of deaths resulting, and other individuals condemned to a life of invalidism, so now are physicians everywhere investigating the effects of dinitrophenol on the system. Dinitrophenol is now being used by thousands of individuals in an effort to reduce their weight, and it must be admitted that a drug which will reduce weight without having the patient decrease the food intake or increase exercise is bound to be popular. It must be helping many or it would not be so generally used.

However, as deaths, skin and heart ailments have been traced to the use of dinitrophenol, a scientific investigation of its effects upon various organs of the body was bound to be started. The results therefore obtained by Dr. Cyril M. MacBryde and Baret L. Tausig, St. Louis, are interesting and instructive.

That dinitrophenol might cause a disturbance in an individual who was sensitive to it or in one who had liver, heart or other trouble is only to be expected, but these two physicians are reporting the results obtained with dinitrophenol in patients who were not sensitive to it, and in others who had no organic disturbances with other organs.

In testing the effects of the dinitrophenol in interfering with the liver's ability to filter poisons from the blood properly, it was found that in six of eight patients the liver took longer to filter the blood than when they were not taking dinitrophenol.

Marked fatigue is one of the most evident effects of dinitrophenol. The amount of exercise that could be taken was considerably less in four patients during the time they were taking dinitrophenol.

Another point was that the sugar in the blood increased under the use of dinitrophenol as dinitrophenol interfered with the ability of the tissues to use as much sugar as when dinitrophenol was not being taken.

Although there was no change in the pulse rate, the blood pressure or the breathing rate in six patients, there were changes in the electrical record of the heart's actions in three of the cases.

There were fifteen cases in all examined after the use of dinitrophenol and these physicians state: "The fact that the majority of the patients showed somewhat alarming changes, the question arises as to whether the use of a drug with so many chances of danger is justified in treating a simple condition like overweight."

What Today Means

"LIBRA"

If October 22 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m., from 2:30 to 4:30 p.m. and from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. The danger periods are from 7:30 to 9:30 a.m., from 12:30 to 2:30 p.m. and from 4:30 to 6:30 p.m.

Do not hand out advice too freely this day. If you would avoid having your feelings hurt. People, as a rule, present being told what they should not do. Procrastination is likely to be the mistake some business men and women will make. Dilatory methods are apt to be costly and should be avoided. This day is a good one for social activities, as they may be instrumental in forming new friendships. Stubbornness is the danger to be guarded against, as it is likely to be the stumbling block in some well-devised planning. You may be surprised by the sentimental expression of a friend, as well as gratified by a friend's thoughtfulness. Married and engaged couples, and those harboring a deep affection for some particular person must be careful not to be irritated by repeatedly discussing some subject.

If a woman and October 22 is your birthday, you are probably a very practical person. You are perhaps inclined to take literally things that are said in a joke. Try to take life less seriously, and development is through domesticity.

At the Theatres

RICHARD TAUBER
IS AT DOMINION

"Heart's Desire" Features Famous Singer in Motion Picture With Austrian Setting

In "Heart's Desire," due for screening at the Dominion Theatre today, Richard Tauber's entrancing voice has never been heard to better advantage.

The Biergarten set, where, as "Bieder," an Austrian singer with great local popularity (Richard Tauber) holds everyone entranced by his marvellous rendering of "Vienna, City of My Dreams," is most effective. The film promises to make Tauber supreme on the screen as he already is on stage and concert platform.

It is in the "Biergarten" that a rich English girl, cleverly played by Leonora Corbett, first meets "Bieder." She is in search of a tenor to sing in the new opera composed by her boy friend (played by Carl Harbord) in London, and immediately she hears "Bieder" who realizes that her quest is over. Bieder is not anxious to leave the biergarten and his little sweetheart, but she overrules his objections, for though music is the heart and end-all of his existence, he shrinks from leaving his friends and the city he knows so well, to venture into a strange life in a new country. He is finally persuaded to go, and leave Vienna for London.

During production of "Heart's Desire" Richard Tauber celebrated his birthday. A large cake was brought in with candles alight, and everyone working on the production had a piece of cake and wished Tauber "all the best."

LITTLE ORPHEUM—Dozens of private homes in and around Los Angeles loaned tables, lamps, old prints, halbracks and other items of furniture to the Fox Film studios during the filming of "Judge Priest," starring Will Rogers, which is now at the Little Orpheum Theatre. The time of the story is 1880, but it was necessary that Judge Priest's home be filled with knick-knacks dating

CAPITOL Bill Robinson, famous "Theater" Negro tap dancer, won a new hat as a result of the filming of the Paramount comedy, "The Big Broadcast of 1936," now at the Capitol Theatre. Robinson, who gets several thousand dollars for a single performance, danced for one hour with Oake as his one-man audience.

COLUMBIA British Lion's light theatre comedy, "Gay Love," now showing at the Columbia Theatre, co-stars two brilliant artists from the stage, one the world's greatest singer of syncopated ballads in variety, the other London's acknowledged revue favorite.

These are Florence Desmond in her first film since her triumphant American tour, and Sophie Tucker, whose first British talkie this is.

PLAYHOUSE Determined to remain in character during the filming of "Thunder in the East," now at the Playhouse Theatre, the Leon Garganoff production, formerly titled "The Battle," in which she plays a Japanese, Merle Oberon insisted upon adopting the Japanese woman's haircut and wearing a kimono, and coconut oil used as a pomade, and it accounts for the lovely lustre of Merle's hair.

Old Farmer Brown, on his first visit to London, was greatly interested in all he saw. Stopping at the corner of a street to light his pipe, he was approached by a man. "Matches, sir?" asked the stranger. Taking a box from the tray the man was carrying, Giles lit his pipe and returned it, saying:

"Ay, it's a wonderful place, London. Everything's handy."

OFFICIALS VISIT
RED CROSS SHOP

Mayor Leeming, Ald. P. R. Brown and Councillor H. Cotton Inspect Plant

His Worship Mayor Leeming and Alderman P. R. Brown paid a visit to the Red Cross Workshop yesterday morning when they inspected the different departments. They found the disabled employees industrious and happy, turning out to order different articles in wood, wicker and metal.

The visitors were received by Major S. H. Okell, manager of the shop, together with Mr. Waterson, campaign manager for Poppy Day, and C. A. Gill, secretary of the Remembrance Day committee. The making of the poppies and wreaths drew special attention, and it was pointed out that all of British Columbia was supplied from this shop. Shipments were now being made to every city and village of the province.

The making of the poppies and wreaths gave year-round employment to disabled ex-service men, from January to December and His Worship expressed the hope that a large sale would ensue this year.

SYMBOL OF SACRIFICE
The poppy is the symbol of sacrifice, the emblem of remembrance, the manufacture gives employment to disabled men, while the proceeds of sale provide a fund for the relief of returned men and their dependents throughout the year.

The Red Cross Workshop is still caring for thirty ex-service men who through their war disabilities, are now unable to fend for themselves. The Mayor spoke highly of the work being carried on, and urged that every possible public support be given.

Also yesterday morning Councillor H. D. Cotton paid a visit to the Red Cross Workshop to extend the best wishes of Reeve Crouch and fellow-councillors of Sanich during the coming poppy campaign. He said the Sanich Council realized the splendid work being done and that the shop could expect its continued support.

STORIED SPOTS
FROM SEA TO SEA

NEW BRUNSWICK'S CAPITAL

WITH the coming of the Loyalists to the St. John River region a new province was born. Agitation soon arose for separate government and in 1784 the partition of Nova Scotia took place. Thomas Carleton, who had fought under his brother Sir Guy Carleton in the Revolutionary War, became the first Lieutenant-Governor of New Brunswick. He arrived in St. John in November. Through this already sizeable settlement seemed to be the natural capital, Carleton rejected it, for he thought it too open to attack from the sea. His choice fell upon St. Anne's, an old Acadian settlement eighty-five miles up the river.

When the first Loyalist settlers had come to St. Anne's in 1783 only three of the old French houses were still standing, and the first winter was one of hardship due to lack of dwellings and supplies. But in spite of this unpromising beginning the little town was destined to become a provincial capital, as we have seen, within three years. Carleton named it Frederick Town, in honor of the second son of George III. He took up residence in 1786, and held his first council there in the Fall.

But the first legislative assembly, having been duly elected amid election riots in St. John, met at the latter port that year and the next. Frederick was the river, the new capital was inadequate except in summer. Accordingly the first session held in Frederick was in that season of the year 1788. The building which housed it, now considerably altered, still stands in New Brunswick's lovely capital city.

Harmony and Humor of Cotton Blossom Quartette Delight Large Gathering

Sprinkling the programme with humor, the Cotton Blossom Negro Male Quartette, gifted melodists of Piney Wood Negro School in Mississippi, sang native spirituals, old favorites and picaresque songs to a large and enthusiastic gathering in Metropolitan United Church last night.

Prolonged applause followed each number, and in response to a wish expressed by the gathering, the quartette extended the programme. Throughout the evening, the quartette seemed to equally enjoy the programme. The members, Major Faleur Walker, Thomas J. Truett, Boyd Bowman and Samuel Grey, with their soft voices, gave unusual interpretations to their numbers, many of which were accompanied by humorous dramatics.

IN HUMOROUS VEIN
Beginning in a humorous vein, the quartette instantly struck a responsive note with the two songs, "Oh, Mary, Don't You Weep" and "Little David, Play on Your Harp."

Major Walker, who introduced each song, delighted the audience with two tenor solos, "Can't You Hear Me Calling, Caroline?" and "Without a Song."

An old plantation song, "That's What the Matter With the Church," was also well received, as was a typical Negro work song on today, "Water Boy." Major Walker explained the latter song was the story of a Georgian prison chain gang calling for the water boy and threatening to tell his "mammy" if he did not come.

Mr. Truett showed his deep voice to advantage in two bass solos, "Bass Viol" and "Sleep in the Deep."

"Let the Church Roll On" was another of the amusing numbers sung by the quartette, whose harmonies could be likened unto organ tones.

TWO READINGS
To vary the programme, Mr. Truett stepped forward with a reading, "A Man Is Just a Man," which was followed by a reading depicting an aged Negro grandfather playing with his small grandchild. It was entitled "Little Brown Baby With Sparkling Eyes."

"Old McDonald Had a Farm," "Honey" and "Who Stole the Lock From the Henhouse Door?" which the quartette dedicated to the youngsters present, drew much applause.

Other numbers by the singers were: "So High," that told a story

Future of Salmon Fishing Engages Attention of Northwest Experts

SEATTLE, Oct. 21 (AP)—The future of the salmon in the Pacific Northwest, where dams are being built across important spawning rivers, is a problem engaging the attention of experts, commercial fishermen and sportsmen.

Men engaged in studying the fish have not yet arrived at a unanimous conclusion.

Miller Freeman, chairman of the fisheries division of the Washington State Planning Council, fearing the extinction of sockeye salmon in the Fraser River of Western Canada, believes the fish can be saved only by ratification of the pending International Sockeye Treaty between the United States and Canada.

"In 1913 the salmon pack on both sides of the international line totaled 2,401,488 cases," Freeman said. "This year it ran only to 137,000 cases."

IMPORTANT START
Sportsmen of Washington State this year point to the banning of all fish traps in the waters of the state as an important start toward saving the salmon. Sportsmen have found improved fishing this season.

Glen O. Leach, chief of the fish culture division of the Bureau of Fisheries, at Washington, D.C., last week suggested a stream-lined salmon, having less reserve fat and energy, might be developed by the planned removal of salmon hatcheries at the base of the Grand Coulee Dam, in the Columbia River, before the fish have completed their normal run upstream.

Paul Runyan Loses Match to Portland Shotmaker, 3 and 2

Detroned in Quarter-Finals by Al Zimmerman at Twin Hills Golf Club—Revoluta Advances—Armour Comes Through at Thirty-Ninth Green Over Ed Dudley—Smith Ousted

By WHITNEY MARTIN
Associated Press Sports Writer
TWIN HILLS GOLF CLUB, OKLAHOMA CITY, Oct. 21 (AP)—A straight-shooting Westerner, Al Zimmerman, Portland, Ore., sent Paul Runyan, a professional golf association crown spinning from his head today, and tomorrow he will join Tommy Armour, Al Watrous and Johnny Revoluta in the semi-final scramble for it.

The White Plains, N.Y., title defender was blasted out of the picture by the slight build Zimmerman, auburn streak in the afternoon, yielding, 3 and 2.

Revoluta, the Milwaukee contender, who will be Zimmerman's opponent tomorrow, ousted Eddie Schultz, Troy, N.Y., 4 and 2, by clicking off the last sixteen holes in par fashion.

Armour supplied the dramatics, emerging from a disastrous morning round to pull even with Ed Dudley, Bala, Pa., at the end of thirty-six holes and paring the thirty-ninth to win, one up.

His semi-final hurdle tomorrow will be Watrous, the gum-chewing Birmingham, Mich., player, who finished one up over Horton Smith in the face of a late rally by the Oak Park, Ill., ace.

A gallery of approximately 3,000 quickly sensed the drama of the silver-haired Armour's struggle to redeem himself after a shoddy, futile morning round that required seventy-nine strokes.

PLAY EXTRA HOLES
In the afternoon, Armour found himself deadlocked with Dudley by virtue of a five on the thirty-sixth green as Dudley was getting his par four.

Both shot for birdies on the thirty-seventh, missing by inches and halving in par fours. The thirty-eighth was another half in pars.

On the thirty-ninth, a 360-yard par four, Dudley was in the rough off the tee. He shanked his shot coming out and took four to get on the green as the black Scot was well on with his second. Dudley missed the cup with his fifth shot. Armour's third was inches from the hole and Duffy, then and there, joined the Hagena and the Sarasens and the Shutes as also-rans.

Dudley carded a 75 for his morning round and a 74 for the first eighteen this afternoon.

Zimmerman, a cautious marksman who tries to make each shot a masterpiece, outstayed Runyan, whose forte is a leadiness.

The twenty-seven-year-old Westerner virtually had been overlooked, despite the fact he was one under par for his matches until today.

Succeeds Connell as Goalie

White-faced, lanky Alex Connell, who tended goal for the Stanley Cup-winning Montreal Maroons last season, informed Manager Tommy Gorman he would not be available to goal Maroon nets this year. Though he has retired before only to again step into the big time with his puck-stopping wizardry, this time apparently even Gorman took it seriously. He bought Billy Beveridge from Montreal Canadiens almost as soon as the Flying Frenchmen had secured the former Ottawa man from the N.H.L. as part of their proceeds from dispersal of St. Louis Eagles. Beveridge will probably start as Maroon goalie. Connell, who is an Ottawa fireman, and Tommy Gorman are shown at top, with Goalie-Elect Beveridge below. All three have been actively connected with Ottawa professional hockey in the past.

Hill Climb Will Be Held on Thursday On Mount Douglas

Annual Test Up Steep Course Will Attract Fine Field of Motorcyclists—Councillor Lambrick Scheduled to Officiate at Opening

With the recent heavy rains having thoroughly soaked the course out at Mount Douglas, the members of the Victoria Motorcycle Club are looking forward to one of the most successful hill climbs in the history of this annual event, Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock, that has become one of the leading sporting competitions on Victoria's sports calendar.

All the brush has been cleared from the course and still more provision made for the hundreds of spectators who go out to Mount Douglas to see the riders endeavor to plot their roaring, bucking and rearing machines up the steep grade of the hillside. This year it will be possible to watch a machine leave the pit and go over the top of the hill, from the bank behind the pit, due to the clearing of the view from this vantage point where spectators are away from the dirt thrown by the rear wheels of the speeding machines.

Councillor A. G. Lambrick, of Saanich, has kindly consented to open the afternoon's activities, and after a brief speech will turn the climb over to Reg Williams, local A.M.A. referee, and his crew of timers, tape-men and starters. The first event is for novice riders, who have never won a prize at a hill climb, and as they must own the machine they ride and the motor must be strictly stock, the event should prove interesting and the winner hard to pick. However, George Wellburn, who has proven a good road rider and is a husky fellow with powerful shoulders, developed through swimming, should be able to take his mount in a straight course from the bottom to the top.

TO DEFEND CUP
Bill Espley, holder of the Paul Girard Challenge Trophy, emblematic of the local cup championship, will defend his cup in the next event, and as usual there should be a terrific battle for first honors. Probably Frank Baylis, of the Colonist circulation department, will be Espley's chief worry, as Baylis has done well in Northwest competition this year, though if Reg Shanks can keep his mount straighter than he has in previous climbs, he can make faster rides than any other entry, due to the fact that he rides a larger and more powerful motor. However, due to the fact that the more experienced riders get thrown, trying to ride too fast, there is every chance that a rank novice may win this event. Bob Shanks, who did not compete for the cup last year, as he had held it for three years straight, has not decided whether he will enter this event or not this year, but he has an eye on the F. W. Francis Trophy for the Island championship, and has entered that event.

RIDERS COMING
For the first time in the history of the climb outside riders will compete. Last year riders from Upe, Island came down, and Ray Douglas, riding under the colors of the Cowichan Greyhound Club, of Duncan, was right up with the fastest men and this year will be a contender for a place in the winning column.

Riders are also expected from Vancouver and Seattle, and perhaps Portland, so that with the local riders there will be plenty of action in the only open event of the meet, for the Island championship.

The Vancouver Island Coach Lines will run a special bus out to the climb, leaving the depot at 1:30 and returning after the climb. Parking and traffic will be controlled by the Saanich police department, whilst the affair will be handled by the Victoria Motorcycle Club, headed by C. S. Frampton. In the evening the club will stage a dance at the Foresters' Hall.

GREENBERG HEADS LIST
Tigers' First Baseman Voted Most Valuable Player In League

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 21 (AP)—Hank Greenberg, the Bronx boy who went West to become the slugging star of the world champion Detroit Tigers, was designated the most valuable American League player of 1935.

Despite the injury which kept him out of most of the world series games, Greenberg was the unanimous choice of the eight representatives of the Baseball Writers' Association of America, who participated in the election. He polled the maximum total of eighty points.

Big Wes Ferrell, Boston Red Sox pitcher, who won twenty-five games during the past season, received sixty-two points. Joe Vosmik, Cleveland outfielder, was third with thirty-nine points, and Buddy Myer, Washington second baseman, fourth, with thirty-six.

A total of twenty-four players were named in the balloting. Others near the top were Lou Gehrig, Yankees, twenty-nine points, Charlie Gehringer, Detroit, twenty-six; Mickey Cochrane, Detroit, twenty-four; Roger Cramer, Philadelphia, eighteen; Julius Solters and Hollie Henning, St. Louis, sixteen each; Jimmie Fox, Philadelphia and Tommy Bridges, Detroit, eleven; Ted Lyons, Chicago, ten; Lefty Grove, Boston, eight.

In addition to the twenty-four players named in the voting, an "honor list" was named, including George Selkirk, the burly Canadian who took over Babe Ruth's spot with the Yankees; Red Rolfe, New York; Schoonover Rowe and Goose Goslin, Detroit, and Jimmy Dykes, Chicago.

BURDEN TOPS FIELD
In a tombstone competition held at Uplands, Sunday, James Burden was the winner. His last stroke died twelve feet from the pin on the nineteenth. R. C. Elliott was a close second, finishing thirty feet from the pin on the same green.

GAMES TOPIC IS DISCUSSED
Verbal Battle Over U.S. Entry in Olympiad Is Argued by Bosses
NEW YORK, Oct. 21 (AP)—The vociferous verbal battle over America's entry in the 1936 Olympic Games at Berlin, revolving mainly about the issue of Germany's domestic treatment of Jewish athletes, developed a rebuttal today from two official sources to the latest attack on Nazi policies by Jeremiah T. Mahoney, New York, president of the Amateur Athletic Union of the United States.

In Berlin, Dr. Theodor Lewald, president of the German Olympic committee, declared "There is no question of religion in German sports," in reply to Mahoney's charge that he (Dr. Lewald) is being "used as a screen to conceal the German Government's most flagrant violations of Olympic ideals of fair play to all."

"Every Jew," added Dr. Lewald, "and every German Catholic has exactly the same chance and right to compete for places on our 1936 Olympic teams as any athlete of another confession."

Mahoney, in a lengthy summary of the "case against Germany" as spokesman for the American athletic forces seeking either to take the Olympics from Berlin or keep this country from participating in the games next year, had challenged the accuracy as well as the authority of Dr. Lewald's statements. The chief executive of the American A.A.U. insisted that indisputable proof existed of Germany's discrimination against Jewish, as well as Catholic, athletes, and called upon Dr. Lewald to resign his Olympic office.

Two leading teams in the Wednesday Football League will clash in a regular fixture Thursday morning at Heywood Avenue grounds in a benefit match for Dave McMillan, well-known local referee, who was badly burned in an accident about two years ago. Hudson's Bay and James Bay Wanderers will provide the action for the fans and the winning eleven will take over undisputed first place in the race for the Heywood Cup and league championship.

Members of the mid-week loop met last night at the W.M.C.A. and decided to put on the first of a series of benefit games for the popular arbiter, who officiates at Wednesday games each week. Every team in the league will put on a benefit game during the season and at the end the funds will be turned over to McMillan.

As the stores will be open tomorrow afternoon on account of Thanksgiving Day on Thursday, only one league game will be run-off this week. Last week Hudson's Bay blanked Spencers, 3-0, and the Wanderers won over the Navy, 2-1. McMillan will handle the whistle.

The idea of the aerial coupe has invaded England and recently De Havilland, the famous British builder, announced his Hornet Moth in which the passengers sit side by side in an enclosed cabin which is quite as comfortable and roomy as a motor car.

The power plant is 130 h.p. inverted air-cooled engine which drives the coupe twenty miles to the gallon at a speed of 105 miles per hour. De Havilland has always built his sport planes with folding wings so that the owner may store his plane in a normal garage at his home.

Air minded British sportsmen spend their holidays in the air with the minimum of inconvenience. They simply hook their plane, tail first, to the rear of their motor cars and drive out into the country until they find an open field for a temporary airport. The wings are unfolded in a few minutes, the motor car parked, and off they go.

Coming home is simply a reversal of this process. These British sport planes cost about $6,000, somewhat higher than the cost of American coupes of similar performance and appointments.

WHY DO WE CALL THEM "BROKERS"?

There are all kinds of brokers—stock brokers, real estate brokers, ship brokers and many others.

Each transacts his particular type of business as an agent for somebody else, an intermediary who is possessed, enjoyed and used by one person to contact another.

It is in this sense of use and possession that the word acquired its present significance. For we have it from the Old English "broccur," akin to the Anglo-Saxon "brucan," to use, to enjoy.

Contributory to its present day usage is the fact that the Old French term for a vendor of wine was "broker" from the Latin verb meaning literally to tap a cask. A "broker" then was one who sold wine at the tap.

By extension of this sense, coupled with the connotation of the Anglo-Saxon cognate, it was only natural for the word to be applied first to any retail dealer—that is, one who bought something with the idea of selling it over again; then to a jobber, and finally, to any middleman, in its modern significance.

Whistler, the artist, was trying to help a fellow-artist out by getting his picture displayed at the exhibition. Hot with rage, Whistler's friend came rushing to him with the story his picture was hung on the wall, but upside down! "Hush!" said Whistler to him, "let it stay that way—it was refused a place the other way!"

FEATHER IN HER HAT—

by JULIE ANNE MOORE

CHAPTER XIV

Thousands of telegrams and letters poured into the hospital during Lee's first week there, but telegrams from his mother alone were sufficient to keep him occupied much of each morning. Her physician had forbidden her to cross the continent unless it was a case of life and death, and being impatient with even air mail, she wrote endless "letters" on telegraph blanks.

It was during his sixth week in the hospital that his mother walked into his room one evening and after a minimum of affectionate exchanges, demanded to know, "Who is this little government clerk?"

Mrs. Monday was just on the wrong side of fifty, but a rigid and systematic daily routine of facials and massages and exercises gave her, at first glance, the appearance of thirty-five. She was a woman of extraordinary energy. Her abrupt question left no doubt in Lee's mind that she had "had information," as he phrased it, and had promptly told her doctor to go to the devil and caught the next plane East.

"I won't have any of this nonsense, Lee," she told him as she paced the floor at the foot of the bed. "It is evident this girl planned that wreck in the mountains and then proceeded to rope you in. I gave you credit for better sense."

Lee made no effort to conceal his amusement. "You would have to know this girl to understand how ridiculous that sounds," he said, grinning. "Why, Ann—"

"Oh, I know, I know. . . ." She waved argument aside with a flutter of her hands. "She's beautiful, she's brilliant, she's modest and retiring and she tells you she would be much happier if you didn't have a cent in the world! . . . I know her kind. I want to see this little adventurer and tell her I'll fight her with every cent I own. If she's reasonable, I'll have my lawyers draw up a settlement. If she isn't—what are you laughing at, you young idiot?"

"At you. At the idea of your talking about a 'settlement' with Ann. . . . What I wouldn't give for a ringside seat for that little comedy!"

"It will not, I think, be a comedy," she suddenly sank into a chair. "When will you get out of here, Lee?"

"Within a week or two," he said. "I'll be using a cane for some time, however. Oh, by the way—visitors will not be allowed tomorrow afternoon. You'll have to come in the evening. Around seven."

Her son had known no more about the consultation than she had, but Mrs. Monday was no less irritated by the delay. Lee had said seven o'clock. It was now after seven. Why could he not have saved her this needless wait? These dark little reception rooms gave one the creeps. And she might be here for hours. . . .

A moment later the small, slim figure of a girl was framed in the doorway. "If you will just wait here, please," a nurse said and went off. The girl walked around the table and sat down. Mrs. Monday cleared her throat, but the girl did not look up.

For half an hour they sat in the poorly lighted room, staring at unseen objects, thinking thoughts which, unknown to them both, centered on the same young man. . . . Entering the lobby downstairs, Ann had encountered Lee's day nurse just going off duty and the nurse had told her, "there's a consultation on in Mr. Monday's room. Two specialists from Johns Hopkins. They haven't been able to get complete articulation and they're beginning to worry about a permanent limp. But— with a wink—"you don't know anything about it."

So it was that while Lee's mother tapped her chin and considered how she might definitely blast her son's infatuation for a gold-digging government clerk, the little government clerk sat some ten feet away deeply troubled by the thought that Lee might carry a reminder of their mountain crash to the end of his life.

Mrs. Monday cleared her throat again. The silence and the girl's sorrowful expression were beginning to wear on her nerves. . . . Now Ann looked up and met the older woman's gaze and smiled. Mrs. Monday smiled back at her, and said quietly, "nothing, my dear, is ever quite so tragic as it may seem. You are much too young and lovely to worry over something you can't do anything about."

Ann colored a little. Had her face reflected her thoughts so plainly? "You are very kind," she said. Then, "this isn't a very cheerful room to wait in, is it?"

"A morgue!" Mrs. Monday said shortly. "They might at least light the place up and provide some decent reading matter." She gestured toward some old magazines on the table. "Do you read?"

Did she read? What an odd question.

"Why, yes," she said. "As much as the average, I suppose."

"The average girl doesn't read," Mrs. Monday almost snapped. "You haven't I suppose, come across the book, 'Cluck in Mink'?"

"The book had been a best-seller for all of two months, and Ann had read it after her return to Washington. "Yes," she said. "I thought it very good, but a good deal overrated. The author apparently wanted to convey the idea that Miriam was typical of her generation."

"You think she was not?"

Ann smiled. "Miriam was about my age," she said. "Of all the girls I know, I can think of but one who would put material considerations before love. Miriam was what they are now calling a gold-digger. She had no regard for convention, or even simple decency. To her marriage was merely a means to put an end. . . . And when she did finally marry the man who knew nothing of her past, it was his money and social prestige that she wanted. . . . My generation isn't like that. No more than your is."

"I'm afraid," said Mrs. Monday, "you do not know your generation. Have you ever lived in New York?"

"No, I grew up in a small town. I've never lived in any city but Washington—and only a short time here."

"I guessed as much. Anyone can look at you and see that you haven't been contaminated by contact with unwholesome influences. But when you speak for your generation, my child, you unintentionally pretend a knowledge you could not possibly possess. 'Cluck in Mink' was admirably true to life and your Miriam was, I regret to say, the counterpart of an alarming number of girls your age. . . . You think, perhaps, I am far removed from your age to know, but I have just come from California to deal with a girl of Miriam's type—a gold-digger as you say—a shrewd, scheming little female who has set her head on marrying my son and has succeeded in persuading him that he is in love with her."

Ann's voice was earnestly sympathetic, yet dubious. "But mightn't you be wrong—about this girl? She doesn't admit that she is trying to marry your son for his money, of course?"

Mrs. Monday shrugged, impatiently. "Naturally not—though I haven't talked with her. I hope to see her within the next twenty-four hours and make her a very generous offer."

"An offer?" Ann said, puzzled.

"Money, child. That's what she wants isn't it?"

Ann gripped the sides of the chair and gazed down at her extended toes, thoughtfully. After a time she looked up. "I don't think you're being quite fair," she said.

A hospital orderly looked in the door. "You can see Mr. Monday now," he mumbled.

Mrs. Monday rose. Ann rose. "I hope," said the older woman, "I haven't bored you with my troubles."

She came across the room and held out her hand. "You're a very sensible girl and I only wish—my dear—you're ill!" She put her hands on Ann's arms. "Why didn't you tell me?"

Ann's face was crimson and her throat and parted lips were dry and burning. She shook her head, firmly. "No, no," she said at last. "The room's too close, I think." She moved toward the door, watching her, anxiously.

In the corridor they halted. Lee's room was to the right, the stairs and elevator to the left. Ann's face was a study of indecision as she stood there. When she spoke, her voice was low and husky.

"Are you Lee's mother?"

The older woman's eyes widened, but after a moment she said, "yes, I am Lee's mother. You are a friend of his?"

Ann did not answer the question. "Will you give him this, please?"

Staring, Mrs. Monday held up an open palm.

"And tell him I'm sorry."

She was reaching down the stairs before Lee Monday's mother realized that the tiny object in her hand was a rather lovely engagement ring.

That night Ann told Rita she thought that they had imposed upon Mollie much too long. Rita balked. Mollie, she said, insisted she wanted them there, so why move?

It was the next morning that Rita discovered that Ann had not slept in her bed. There was a note propped up against the telephone. Mollie found it there and read it aloud:

"Please tell anyone who asks for me I have gone away for an indefinite stay. And don't be too hard on me for running off. Perhaps I'll be able to explain some day."

"Ann."

Two hours later Rita found Ann in her usual place at the Census office, but she would not discuss what she had done. "If our friendship means anything," she said, "don't let me hear of this thing out alone. And don't, please, bring me messages from anyone."

Though completely baffled, Rita agreed to respect her wishes. "But let me work this thing out alone. If you're running away from Lee, you're a little fool, Ann."

Lee left with his mother for California on Thanksgiving Day. A week later, Ann reappeared at the apartment in the early evening to ask if the prodigal daughter might rejoin the family.

She had chosen an unfortunate moment to return for she found not only Rita and Mollie there, but also Selma and Carl and Bill Hudson. They all gave her a noisy welcome and teased her unmercifully for her lack of temperance. "as Bill called it. But through all the banter there was an undertone of something unpleasant, some uneasiness. It was Mollie who finally told her:

"The police have reopened their investigation into Fuhrman's death, Ann. It looks as if one of our little family must have gone in for murder."

"What would you like for your birthday, Frankie?"

"Oh, a telephone! Then I can answer teacher's questions without going to school."

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

Without Calomel—And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning!

The liver should pour out two pounds of bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your bowels will not move. It just dumps in the bowels. Gas builds up your stomach. You get constipated. Your whole system is poisoned and you feel sour, sunk and the world looks pink.

Lasttime are only makeshifts. A more bowel movement doesn't get at the cause. It takes these gentle and Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel good and happy. Lee, gentle, yet amazing in making bile flow freely. Ask your doctor for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name. Don't buy anything else. See.
